

The Glastonbury Zodiac, part of the sacred landscape in the West Country, is a circle of figures shaped by hills and valleys, outlined by rivers, boundaries and roads. Suggestively dated to 2000 BC, the figures were rediscovered in 1925 by the sculptor Katherine Maltwood, while working on illustrations for 'The High History of the Holy Grail'.

Here we have a circle of figures, 11 miles across, shaped by nature and the help of man, mirroring the sky above, the stars and the movements of the Sun, Moon and planets through the signs of the Zodiac.

Here and in the surrounding areas we find a multitude of ancient sacred sites resonating with the Goddess of the Land, Bridie, Morgan, Ana, and Ceridwen. Healing springs and wells, underground caves, earthworks, and beacon hilltops all form a network of experiences for those who go on a quest.

Here people have trod on pilgrimage since the dawn of history; Sumarians, Jesus, Joseph of Arimathea, early Arabians; they all are said to have come.

Here was the place chosen for the first Christian church on English soil. The names of St. Dunstan, St. Patrick and St. Bridgit are closely linked with this area.

Here we find the legends of King Arthur and his knights made flesh, The Round Table inscribed in the landscape itself. The ladies of the legends being reflections of ancient Celtic Goddesses.

A treasury of wisdom is available for those choosing to go on a quest for the message hidden in the hills and vales; to find the Grail - eventually to find ones self.

I offer the opportunity for individual guided tours of many sacred landscape sites in the West Country, all tailored to your interests and wishes

Please look at my web-site for extensive list of destinations, or phone. If you are looking for a place, I have not mentioned, you are welcome to ask.

As well as the Zodiac, we find stone-circles, megaliths, hill forts, dolmens, long-barrows, ancient groves, sacred hilltops, healing wells and much much more in this historic and magic landscape.

We will drive and walk, make stops, study the natural and man made elements, reflect on the legends and history. We will use various techniques to make ourselves aware of the forces and energies present in the landscape.

For visiting Glastonbury Zodiac you can bring your horoscope, and we can work with that within the landscape; or you can order a birth-chart from me.
